Second Shot Fired In 1955 Atomic Test

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—An atomic tower explosion—second shot of the 1955 nuclear test series—jolted Las Vegas just before dawn today.

The "George shot"—this was Washington's birthday—rattled windows and awoke many persons not already up in this city of 50,000, which lies 75 miles southeast of the Atomic Energy Commission's test site.

Seventeen congressmen and 200 military observers watched the detonation of the nuclear device, set off from the top of a 300-foot tower on Yucca Flat at 7:45 a.m. CST.

Visible 275 Miles

The orange flash was visible in Los Angeles 275 airline miles to the southwest.

Observers at the AEC control point, about 10 miles from the blast, felt two distinct shocks as the sound wave rumbled around the low mountains circling the flat. Two shocks also were felt in Las Vegas.

Doors and windows shook at the police station and Southern Nevada Memorial Hospital, but there was no breakage as in the 1951 and 1952 tests here. Today's shot was the 33rd at the Nevada test site.

The atomic cloud rose over 20,000 feet and an ice cap formed on top of the familiar mushroom. Within a half hour winds began shearing the cloud and it was blown east and southeast in the general direction of St. George, Utah, and northern Arizona.

Closed To Aircraft

The Civil Aeronautics Authority warned all pilots planning flights within 300 miles of Grand Canyon airport to check first with CAA. Southern Utah and a large rectangular segment of Arizona were closed to aircraft from 15,000 to 26,000 feet much of the morning.

The congressmen viewed the test from News Nob, at least eight miles from the tower. They were the first of three groups of legislators invited to witness tests during the new series.

The military observers were in trenches 4,000 yards from ground zero. No maneuvers were scheduled, however.

Forty planes including 24 F84s from the Tactical Air Command were engaged in aerial sorties during the test.

The AEC said 33 various experiments, including civil effects tests, were held in connection with the explosion. The nature of these was not immediately disclosed.

Soviets Claim Lead In Output Of Havoc Bombs

LONDON (AP)—The Soviet Union today heralded the approach of Red army day with a claim that it is leading the United States in the production of both atomic and hydrogen weapons.

Moscow radio carried a statement by Lt. Gen. Sergei S. Shatilov.

Shatilov said the Soviet army and navy were equipped with "every kind of weapon and the most modern military equipment." Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov claimed in a speech before the Supreme Soviet (parliament) on Feb. 8 that the United States was lagging behind the Soviet Union in the production of the hydrogen bomb.

Gen. Shatilov, in his statement today, declared:

"We have today in sufficient quantities airplanes, fast and easily maneuverable tanks, fierce artillery and remarkable naval ships with incomparable firing accuracy."

"We also have in our country atomic and hydrogen weapons, and their production, as is well known, is ahead of that of the Americans."

The broadcast came while the United States was conducting atomic tests in Nevada.

Ex-Senator Sued For $53,711 Tax

DETROIT (AP)—The federal government is seeking $53,711 in additional income taxes from a one-time head of the Michigan Senate Finance Committee.

Arthur E. Wood, 85, of Detroit, gave his version of the case in U. S. Tax Court Monday. Wood was a Republican senator from Detroit's fourth district for 31 years ending in 1949.

The government contends he owes additional taxes for 1950 and 1951.

Wood told Judge Graydon G. Withey, of Flint, he filed capital gains returns because he had retired as a professional real estate broker.

Government attorneys said they considered Wood still actively engaged in business because of the large number of transactions he handled in the years in question.

Wood paid $19,897 in taxes in 1950 and $24,005 in 1951. The government contends $44,785 and $52,828 should have been paid.

Later came another truck announcing:

Change Of Name At MSC Studied

LANSING (AP)—Presidents of the University of Michigan and Michigan State College are considering a joint approach to MSC's desire to change its name.

President Harlan Hatcher of the University of Michigan and president John A. Hannah of MSC agreed to ask their boards of control to set up committees to study the proposal. The agreement followed a meeting of the council of college presidents.

Hatcher said he would ask the board of regents to consider setting up such a committee at its meeting this Friday.

Hatcher said he couldn't speak for the board, but predicted members would be "very happy" to discuss the name change with members of the State Board of Agriculture, MSC governing body.

Rep. John J. McCune has proposed legislation to give MSC university status.

A similar bill was introduced last year, but withdrawn. The university contended the name "Michigan State University" would lead to confusion.

Matusow Tells Senators He's Habitual Liar

WASHINGTON (AP)—Harvey Matusow, terming himself a reformed "perpetual and habitual liar," faces more questioning today by senators probing his story that he has falsely branded hundreds of persons as Communists or pro-Reds.

The Senate Internal Security Subcommittee heard three hours of testimony by Matusow Monday. Chairman Eastland (D-Miss) later told reporters he thinks the subcommittee is tackling something "deeper seated than just this witness."

"I think he's part of a plan—part of a shrewd scheme to get some folks who have been convicted of trouble," Eastland said. He said that "of course" he meant 13 second-rank Communist leaders convicted of conspiracy.

On the basis of Matusow's sworn statements that he lied at the trial of the 13, their attorneys are appealing for a new trial.

Most of Matusow's testimony Monday duplicated what he had told the Federal District Court in New York City last week in a hearing on the motion for a new trial.

On one new tack, Matusow questioned testimony by Elizabeth Bentley, a key government witness in congressional hearings at which she has named scores of persons as helping Communist espionage agents.

"Miss Bentley, I believe, gave false testimony," Matusow said. "I am basing that on conversations with Miss Bentley and not on hearsay." He did not elaborate. News men were unable Monday night to reach Miss Bentley, who lives in Lafayette, La.

Democrats Think They Can Put Over Income Tax Cut

WASHINGTON (AP)—Rep. Halleck (R-Ind) said today he "certainly" would advise President Eisenhower to veto any tax bill including a Democratic plan for a $20-a-year income tax cut next Jan. 1.

Halleck, assistant House Republican leader, predicted, however, Republicans would defeat the tax-cutting proposal in a House floor scrap now set for Thursday.

Unwise Says Byrd

Democratic sponsors of the move and some other key Republicans differed. They said they saw little chance that House members, after voting earlier for a $10,000-a-year pay hike for themselves, would kill a tax cut affecting every taxpayer.

Whatever happens in the House, trouble loomed in the Senate for any tax cut move. Chairman Byrd (D-Va) of the Finance Committee renewed his opposition to tax reductions until the budget is balanced. Sen. George (D-Ga), senior member of the committee, termed the House move "unwise and unfortunate."

The House Ways and Means Committee voted 15-10 late yesterday to wrap the $20 tax cut into an administration bill. This measure would postpone for another year almost three billion dollars worth of tax reductions scheduled for April 1 in corporation income and excise taxes.

Gimmick To Get Vote

Halleck said in an interview that if Republicans cannot knock out the income tax cut, then they would oppose the entire bill.

The Democratic proposal would give a $20 tax cut to each taxpayer and each dependent, chopping about two billion dollars from federal revenues over a full year. Chairman Cooper (D-Tenn) of the Ways and Means Committee said Eisenhower has indicated he is planning tax cuts next year and Democrats want to make sure the relief goes to "hard-pressed, low-income taxpayers, where it is needed most."

Rep. Daniel A. Reed (R-NY), senior GOP member of the committee, denounced the Democratic move as "unpardonable irresponsibility... a political gimmick designed to buy votes."

Welsh Faces Ouster From Grand Rapids City Manager Post

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

George W. Welsh of Grand Rapids, a veteran of the political scene, may soon be leaving it again; two circuit judges in Detroit appointed by Gov. Williams have been given a resounding vote of confidence.

These were the highlights of Monday's primary election in Michigan—along with the nomination also of Dearborn's blustery Mayor Orville L. Hubbard in the court race.

Expects To Be Fired

Welsh faces ouster from his present post as Grand Rapids city manager. Two candidates openly opposed to the colorful 71-year-old political figure were elected to the city commission. This swung the balance against Welsh to the same 4-3 margin that has been for him since last May.

Welsh, who at various times has been lieutenant governor, speaker of the state House of Representatives, and Grand Rapids mayor, said candidly he expects to be fired. He said he hopes the new commission will find a capable replacement.

Welsh has been on the political scene since 1912. He served several terms as Grand Rapids mayor, and quit under threat of a recall in 1949 at a time when he was president of the United States Conference of Mayors. He has run both as a Democrat and Republican. The Grand Rapids city government is non-partisan.

Welsh's advocacy of a seven million dollar revenue bond issue to finance expansion of city water distribution facilities was a major issue in the election.

Improved Roads Can Save Lives, Congress Told

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower, asking Congress to approve his 101-billion-dollar highway program, said today the country must have a road network permitting people to move out of target areas quickly in case of atomic attack.

In an 1,800-word special message, the President cited the danger of "deadly congestion" during Atomic warfare as one of four reasons for "action, comprehensive and quick and forward-looking" for highway improvement.

Traffic Toll Costly

He also said:

1. Better highways would save lives, reducing the annual toll of 36,000 killed and more than a million injured. Eisenhower said the economic loss from accidents is estimated at $4,300,000,000 a year.

2. Poor roads add to the cost of operating vehicles over them—as much as a cent a mile per vehicle for a total yearly cost of five billion dollars. He said the higher road transportation costs are reflected in the cost of goods and are paid ultimately by the individual consumer.

3. The country is growing and, as population and national output increase, highway development must be increased. Unless this is done, Eisenhower said, "existing traffic jams only faintly foreshadow those of 10 years hence."

As to the importance of highways in event of war, Eisenhower said:

"In case of an atomic attack on our key cities, the road net must permit quick evacuation of target areas, mobilization of defense forces and maintenance of every essential economic function. But the present system in critical areas would be the breeder of a deadly congestion within hours of an attack."

The Eisenhower program, as set out in the message, followed the general lines of a report drafted last month by an advisory committee headed by Gen. Lucius D. Clay.

Bond Issues Proposed

However, the President passed over lightly two of the most highly controversial features of the report.

In advance of the submission of the message, Senate Democratic leaders had declared their opposition to a number of key features of the Clay report.

These included:

1. A plan for a 30-year bond issue to be financed by a federal highway corporation that would finance a planned 40,000 mile interstate highway network with a total cost of 1 1/2 billion dollars.

2. A plan to reimburse states for money spent on building toll roads that become part of the interstate network.

On the bond issue, Eisenhower said:

"I am inclined to the view that it is sounder to finance this program by special bond issues... rather than by an increase in general revenue obligations."

He said he thought these bonds should be paid off through "increasing revenues from present gas and diesel oil taxes, augmented in limited instances with tolls."

That was the President's only reference to toll roads.

Report Outlines Needed

Eisenhower also said: "A sound federal highway program, I believe, can and should stand on its own feet, with highway users providing the total dollars necessary

Chicago Primary Balloting Heavy

CHICAGO (AP)—Good weather and a hot contest for control of Chicago's Democratic party leadership brought fairly heavy voting in the city's primary today.

County Judge Otto Kerner, head of the election machinery, estimated that a million of the city's 1,930,000 eligible voters might cast their ballots. There were 599,059 votes cast in the 1954 primary.

A projection after about a fourth of the voting time had passed indicated that the vote would total 889,000, but Kerner said he believed the late hour voting would be heavier because of the Washington's Birthday holiday today.

In a letter sent to the governor today, Rep. Emil A. Peltz (R-Rogers City), chairman of the committee, invited Williams to a meeting of the committee Wednesday.

A stalemate was reached on the highway problem after the committee junked both the Republican and Democratic plans. Committee members agreed neither plan could pass the House.

Nets Lost As Ice Goes Out

MENOMINEE—Menominee bay-shore fishermen lost 12 to 20 pound nets early Monday when Green Bay ice moved out before brisk southwesterly winds from Kleink Park north to the LeMay farm near the Bark River.

The ice was gone from the shore above and below Cedar River to the extent of vision. Fishermen said that if the wind continued the ice would move out the Death's Door passage into Lake Michigan. Last year bay ice moved out March 25.

Some of the fishermen had only one and two lifts of nets which were placed only last week when they shifted fishing operations from Escanaba to Menominee areas.

Hope For Salvage

Most of the pound nets are weighted and attached with cord so that they drop to the bottom if the ice moves. Fishermen were preparing today to grapple for nets as soon as the wind dies.

Francis Hayward lost an ice cutting machine when the ice went out.

Fishermen lamented the early breakup, especially just as the Lenten season was starting. Jumbo smelt prices are now 12 cents a pound, while regular smelt bring five cents a pound and herring are six cents a pound.

Early lifts this season were light in all areas of Green Bay but fishermen hoped that they would have a good Lenten season.

Usually Progressive

The ice in Green Bay usually breaks up in four stages. The Cedar River move is usually the first, with the second breaking off about at Ingallston and the third breaking at the Ann Arbor ferry channel between Menominee and Sturgeon Bay and the last one in the southern section of the bay.

Only once in the last 55 years has the ice moved out completely in February. That was in 1944 when the ice moved out on February 15. That year the bay didn't freeze until late in January. The bay didn't freeze until late this year and when it did a sudden cold wave made the ice brittle. Fishermen predicted it wouldn't last too long. Ice ranges from eight to 12 inches thick.

Research Reveals Washington Was No Stuffed Shirt

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—George Washington, born 223 years ago today, remains the least understood of famous American Presidents.

He became known as "The Father of his Country" even in his own lifetime. But few of the 164,000,000 who now dwell in the American Republic he did so much to found feel any temptation to call him "Daddy."

He is revered more as a human temple than loved as a fellow human being.

The 19th century agnostic, Robert Ingersoll, wrote of him: "Washington is now only a steel engraving. About the real man who lived and loved and hated and schemed, we know but little."

But modern research has uncovered the warm man beneath the formidable legend. It has shown him to be a man with many faults, but with the great-

U. P. Milk Production Is 350 Million Pounds

How much milk is produced annually in the Upper Peninsula?

Few people would guess the correct answer.

Richard T. Hartwig, Marquette, agricultural economist in the Upper Peninsula for the Michigan State College Extension Service, says 350 million pounds of milk is produced each year in the U. P.

Dairy plants produce milk which is diverted for the following uses:

Fluid milk and cream, 20 per cent of the total production; creamery butter, 17 per cent; cheese, 43 per cent, and ice cream, condensed and evaporated milk, 20 per cent.

"As we look into the future, the use of fluid milk and cream will depend almost entirely on whether the population in the Upper Peninsula increases or decreases. If our population increases, we will tend to use more fluid milk and cream," Hartwig says.

Butter Production Down?

"The production of butter will probably decrease, along with our consumption of this product.

"The Upper Peninsula will probably continue to use a major portion of its milk production for cheese and other manufactured dairy products.

"This comes about since our farms are located considerable distances from the large-consuming metropolitan centers."

The lighting fixtures will be purchased from Henry Kobas of Escanaba, who submitted the lower of two bids. The Kobas bid was approved by the buildings and grounds committee, L. J. Jacobs, chairman, and the purchasing committee.

Twenty Guardsmen Graduate Tonight

Company C, a unit of the 107th Engineers, will announce the graduation of 20 recruits during the first hour of tonight's regular drill. Capt. Roy J. Johnson, company commander will award each graduate recruit with a signed certificate.

For the 20 recruit guardsmen this will mark the end of 12 weeks of basic military training and assignment to working positions in one of the three platoons. In their new jobs all guardsmen will start training in basic and technical engineering subjects.

The recent graduates who will receive certificates with a rating of superior, are Barry Gereau, Edmund Haga and James Larsson; Ivan Majestic, of Ensign; Fred Philester, Gladstone; and Raymond Roy of Escanaba. To attain this rating, the highest, a recruit must have received a score of over 75 points of a possible 100 in both the written and practical demonstration parts of the exam.

Guardsmen who attained a rating of excellent, with a score from 70 to 75 points are as follows: Wayne Cassell, Robert Bizeau and Robert Cannon, Gladstone; Robert Madalinski, Bark River; Archie Megenup Jr., Harris; and George Cavadeas, of Escanaba.

Capt. Johnson said the recruit training school is a continuing function of company C, as new men keep enlisting. At the present time Sgt. Melvin Larson and Cpl. Donald Brewer, Escanaba, are serving as head instructors for the school.

What some men call their principles are usually only examples of selfishness.

Regulations For Catholics During Lent Announced

The regulations of fast and abstinence for the Lenten season for Catholics of the Marquette Diocese have been announced by Bishop Thomas L. Noa.

The regulations on abstinence follow:

Everyone over seven years of age is bound to observe the law of abstinence (abstaining from the eating of meat).

Complete abstinence is to be observed on Fridays, Ash Wednesday and Holy Saturday morning. On days of complete abstinence meat and soup or gravy made from meat may not be used at all.

Partial abstinence is to be observed on Ember Wednesdays and Saturdays. On days of partial abstinence meat and soup or gravy made from meat may be taken only once a day at the principal meal.

The regulations on fasting follow:

Everyone over 21 and under 59 years of age is also bound to observe the law of fast.

The days of fast during the Lenten season are weekdays of Lent and Ember Days.

On days of fast only one full meal is allowed. Two other meatless meals, sufficient to maintain strength, made be taken according to each one's needs, but together they should not equal another full meal.

Meat may be taken at the principal meal on a day of fast, except on Fridays and Ash Wednesday.

Eating between meals is not permitted but liquids, including milk and fruit juices, are allowed.

When health or ability to work would be seriously affected, the law does not oblige. In doubt concerning fast or abstinence, members of the faithful are advised to consult a parish priest or confessor.

Little Temperature Change Is Indicated

Temperatures will be about normal for the season for the next five days, ranging in Northern Michigan from a low of 10 to a high of about 28, according to a special five-day outlook forecast by the U. S. Weather Bureau.

It will be somewhat warmer on Thursday, colder on Friday, and continued cold throughout the coming weekend. There may be some snow beginning in the north late Sunday.

Judge Jackson To Receive Pleas Of Dugener And Otis

Judge Glenn W. Jackson of Gladstone will preside at a special session of Delta County Circuit Court to be held Wednesday in Escanaba, when two men now held in jail in default of bond will be arraigned on criminal charges. They are:

Theodore Dugener, 45, of 1009 3rd Ave. N., charged with statutory rape. Dugener, father of 10 children, was arrested on complaint of a 15-year-old Escanaba Township girl. He is held in jail under $2,000 bond.

William M. Otis, 18, of Duluth, who has been employed in Escanaba, will be arraigned on a charge of robbery unarmed. He was arrested by Escanaba police after he allegedly robbed the Friendly Tavern, 1408 Ludington, of $56.76 and three bottles of wine. He is in jail under a bond of $3,000.

Editorials—

Biographer Freeman Gave Warm Insight In Washington's Life

IT was Feb. 13, 1793, when the votes in America's second presidential election were officially counted and it became evident that George Washington had been overwhelmingly elected to his second term. Of him as he was at that time it has been written:

"He was 61 and he complained mildly of waning memory and of poor hearing, but few others saw any evidence of decline, and his daily life showed none, unless it was an increasing disposition to spend too much time on trifling matters of farm management."

"Was he not mounted and ready for four years more on the road of service to his country? The multitude of his followers and the handful of envious foes would have proclaimed the certainty with joy or reluctantly would have admitted the probability, but there were omens the road would be stony and cloud-covered, and there were voices prophesying strife."

These words were penned as the concluding phrases in the sixth volume of the monumental biography of Washington by the eminent historian, the late Douglas Southall Freeman.

There is nothing remarkable about the words themselves, except that they were the last Freeman wrote, and he wrote them the very day he died. The nation badly needs a portrait of Washington with full human coloring and depth of understanding. It is regrettable Freeman did not live to take him through his second term and his final years. But we can be grateful that the historian managed to cling to life until, by fateful coincidence, he had completed that part of his task immediately before him.

Freeman's great contribution to an appreciation of one of our greatest men was fittingly noted at the moment of his untimely death in 1953. Critics differ as to how perfect Freeman's biography is. But they all agree it is a towering performance compared to any other, and will serve as a standard for others who may try to enlarge our understanding of Washington.

For long decades Americans have been celebrating Washington as a giant of the historical past. Some of the reasons have always been obvious. But many have not. Our thanks must be boundless that Washington lived to guide us in our critical beginnings as a nation. We might also set down a small debt of gratitude that there existed this man Freeman, who at the age of 58, in 1945, started upon an arduous labor of 15,693 hours spread over nearly nine years, to help make Washington a warm, rich, living national memory.

Our Position Is Clear

IF any further notice be needed of our intent to defend Formosa and the adjacent Pescadores Islands, we have now given it. The Senate's overwhelming approval of our mutual defense treaty with Nationalist China seals the matter.

This treaty is narrower in scope than the recent resolution endorsed by both houses of Congress. That gave the President authority to use the armed forces in defense of "related localities" if that should be deemed necessary to Formosan defense. Related localities, in this case, could only mean the offshore islands now in close contention between Red China and Chiang Kai-shek's forces.

But it is the Formosan group proper which is of prime strategic significance to this country. We can accept as adequate a treaty which, like this one, makes it abundantly plain to Red China that we would view any assault on Formosa as endangering our own safety, and as grounds for immediate military counter-measures.

If the Communist Chinese now choose to launch an attack on this island bastion, they will know that our guns and planes and ships will answer. They cannot possibly blunder into such a situation in the ignorant belief we will not rise to the defense.

Words, Wit & Wisdom

By William Morris

"Can you tell me," asks a reader at California's University of Redlands, "the etymology of the word 'excelsior' when it means shredded wood?"

Apparently—"Excelsior"—with the "e" capitalized—was first used as a trade mark to denote a certain brand of this commonly used packing material. But behind this fact lies an interesting tale involving the now long-forgotten nickname of New York—"The Excelsior State."

Although New York's present nickname, "The Empire State," was occasionally heard throughout the nineteenth century, the more popular designation was Excelsior State, from the fact that the state seal bears the word "excelsior." This Latin word is the comparative of "excelsus" and simply means "higher." It was apparently chosen as the state motto on the erroneous assumption that it was an adverb meaning "upward."

However that may have been, the word enjoyed great popularity, especially after Longfellow used it as the title of one of his most popular poems. During the Civil War the New York troops, of course, carried the state motto on their campaign flags and the word became a popular rallying cry.

Astute merchants began labeling their products "excelsior" under the common delusion that the word was a fine-sounding synonym for "excellent." Some of these old trademarks exist to the present day, of course—if memory serves, a favorite brand of Fourth of July sparklers bears this label—but most have been long forgotten. The state nickname, which caused all the excitement in the first place, has likewise long been superseded by the "Empire State" label.

But the businessman who, about 1860, first labeled his new brand of thin wood shavings "Excelsior" wrought better than he could ever have dreamed, for his brand name has now become the popular designation for this packing material.

Try And Stop Me By BENNETT CERF

John Crosby, apparently nettled by the plethora of television panel and quiz shows, smacked his lips gleefully over these suggestions for new ones:

"Share That Grief": Each week the TV cameras cover a new and different funeral.

"Hit the Skids": Bums are picked from the gutter to tell what caused their downfall. The biggest bum wins first prize.

"You Sent Them Up": Desperadoes just out of jail have the opportunity to meet the judge and the prosecuting attorney who had sent them up. Everybody embraces and cries a little bit—and listeners may learn several brand-new words to add to their vocabularies.

A group of elementary school children in the nation's capital were transported to Mt. Vernon for an inspection of General Washington's mansion. Back at their desks, they were asked by the teacher to say just what features of Mt. Vernon impressed them most. A kid in the front row commented, "No television!"

The Doctor Says...

Fit Child's Shoes Correctly;
Not Too Small or Too Large

By EDWIN P. JORDAN, M.D. — Written for NEA Service

A schoolgirl has written that the doctor at school told her she has flat feet. Later, she says, the feet were taped for eight weeks but a short time after the tape was removed her feet were back where they started.

I am not familiar with this taping method for flat feet. A more common method of management, so far as I know, is to gradually build up the arches with felt put inside the shoe, combined with suitable exercises for the feet and perhaps contrast foot baths.

Almost certainly in a young high-school student the arches can be restored and this should be done since it will avoid, in all probability, many difficulties with the feet later on.

GOOD SHOING during childhood is of great importance and requires a good deal of attention since the foot changes in size and sometimes in shape during the early years of life. Shoes should be just the right size—neither too small nor too large. They should not be worn after the shoe has been outgrown since this can cause trouble with the foot itself as well as pressing on the toes.

In addition to using properly fitted shoes, suitable exercises should be employed so that the muscles and ligaments of the feet will have normal tone and circulation and maintain their arches.

MOST CHILDREN avoid the frequent difficulty of grownups, namely standing still in one place too long or sitting for a long time. The fact that children run, jump, and skip so much is certainly good for the feet.

Often special exercises are good for the feet for grownups as well as children. Walking in socks or stockings around a rug on the outer edge of the feet strengthens the arches, ankles, and legs. Trying to pick up the edge of the rug, a pencil or marbles with the toes is also a useful exercise. Doing such exercises as these for a few minutes each day may save much trouble later on.

THE FOLLOWING FOOT health rules have been recommended by the National Foot Health Council: Bathe the feet daily, using a good soap; after the foot bath use powder on the feet and in the shoes and hosiery; wear shoes that are roomy and have flexible leather at the toes; prevent foot infections; don't put shoes on without hosiery; don't walk barefooted on floors or pavements; have your feet examined at least once a year. This sounds like a lot of bother but it really makes good sense.

Today In Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — There's great glee these days among the Communists because Harvey Matusow, a former Communist, now says he lied in his testimony which helped to convict some Communists in the federal courts and reflected on many a person he mentioned in congressional hearings. The Department of Justice has subpoenaed him to go before a grand jury and tell his new story under oath.

If one ex-Communist can be discredited, then presumably all are discredited—that's the new Communist line, and it is regrettable that so many well-meaning people have fallen for the trick. Attorney General Brownell says the incident is being made the subject of world-wide propaganda by the Communists.

The last chapter in the Matusow case hasn't been written and, when it is, there may be some blushes on the faces of those who now are so exultant. It isn't established as yet, for example, just what induced Matusow to say now that he has been lying. Nor is it clear yet that he was not telling the truth in the first place.

Something of the same mystery surrounds the case of Dr. J. Robert Oppenheimer, who was never proved to be a Communist, although he did admit under oath that he had supported financially some Communist-front organizations. The noted scientist, moreover, acknowledged that he had lied to his own government about certain Soviet efforts to get atomic information from him and that several months elapsed before he would admit that he had lied.

GLORIFIED AS MARTYR

This doesn't seem to have affected the evaluation of Dr. Oppenheimer by many scientists. Indeed, a branch of the Ford Foundation is spending money nowadays to finance a television script made by Dr. Oppenheimer recently which is being distributed to many colleges and educational institutions. Evidently lying to one's own government doesn't make much difference to modern "intellectuals." Apparently in some quarters Dr. Oppenheimer is being glorified as a martyr who allegedly is the victim of a persecution by the four naughty members of the Atomic Energy Commission who voted 4-to-1 to deny him access to secret information in the government's possession.

There are people in the government, however, who think Dr. Oppenheimer never did lie in the first place but changed his story when he told it the second time. The facts probably will never be known, and the only thing available is the published record with the scientist's own words given in official testimony last year.

After a long cross-examination about the information he had given intelligence officers of the U. S. Army who were on the track of a case of espionage involving persons who had approached Dr. Oppenheimer, the scientist remarked: "Then I invented a cock-and-bull story."

OPPENHEIMER'S TESTIMONY

During interrogation by counsel for the personnel security board of the Atomic Energy Commission, the testimony runs as follows:

"Counsel: Now let us go back to your interview with Colonel Pash (August 26, 1943). Did you tell Pash the truth about this thing?"

"Oppenheimer: No.

"Counsel: You lied to him?"

"Oppenheimer: Yes . . .

"Counsel: Let us move along to your interview with Colonel Lansdale, on September 12—

"Oppenheimer: Right.

"Counsel: Did you tell him substantially the same story you told Colonel Pash?"

"Oppenheimer: I don't know whether he repeated it to me or I repeated it to him.

"Counsel: In all events, if he repeated it to you—

"Oppenheimer: I did not modify it.

"Counsel: You affirmed it as the truth?"

"Oppenheimer: Yes.

"Counsel: So you lied to him, too?"

"Oppenheimer: That is right."

Why do men lie to their own government? What standard do they apply to themselves, and why do their fellow men so often condone such offenses and seek to vilify the government officials who in performance of their duty cast liars out of the government? Maybe morals mean less and less in the present age among those who have an ideological devotion to the machiavellian cause wherein the end always justifies the means.

Boy Wonder Of Electronics, 67, Has Been Inventor 50 Years

NEW YORK—(NEA) — When William Dubilier was 12, his home was robbed. The thief didn't know it, but he did man-kind a great service. The robbery turned Dubilier into an inventor, a 50-year career that has resulted in hundreds of inventions—starting with a home-made burglar alarm.

And now, 500 patents later, Dubilier is being honored with the first Gano Dunn Medal to be awarded by the Cooper Union Alumni Association. It's a tribute to his "outstanding professional achievement."

Dubilier's greatest creation was the mica condenser, which made possible radios in airplanes, boats, trains — and eliminated the need for batteries. The condenser industry he started now employs over 100,000 people and does an annual business in the hundreds of millions.

"I was working on a wireless telephone," he says, "and the only condensers then in use were big glass jars. They were too big for the set I wanted to build, and they'd break in an airplane. So I had to find something else."

He knew that mica was a better insulator than glass, but all the textbooks said it couldn't be used in a conductor.

"Those two facts were 'contradictions,'" Dubilier says. "It took me several years to figure out how it could be done, but I finally did it."

While still in his 20s, he demonstrated his wireless telephone to the British admiralty. They asked him what kind of a condenser he used. He held up his little invention, then slammed it to the ground.

"See, it doesn't break," he said. All British battleships used Dubilier's radio during World War I.

He was one of the original "boy wonders" of electronics. An East Side New York boy, he'd gone from his home-built burglar alarm to being an "electrical contractor" at 15. He installed burglar alarms in neighborhood stores—"one job a week was better than the $3 I'd been making delivering groceries."

WILLIAM DUBILIER: By wireless phone, the first disc jockey.

Then, at 16, he saw Marconi demonstrate his radio. From then on, he was fascinated with the subject. At 23, he built a wireless telephone in Seattle that reached Tacoma and startled the wits out of West Coast telegraphers—his test voice transmissions were coming in on their telegraph sets. There was speculation in the paper as to whether the mystery transmissions were from Mars.

He hitched up a phonograph to his telephone and began playing records. An enterprising Seattle amusement park operator charged 10 cents to listen, and Dubilier unwittingly was the first disc jockey. This was 1911.

Emissaries of the Tsar saw his demonstrations and induced him—with a $50,000 inducement—to come to St. Petersburg and install a wireless telephone there. He went, but got tired of the court graft and blackmail and "escaped" to London. The Russians sent secret police to kidnap him and bring him back, but he got the secret policemen drunk and called Scotland Yard.

In '35, he was back in Russia—this time, at the invitation of the Soviet government. But he still couldn't stand the Russian attitude, and quit after five weeks. Besides, he had to attend a Russian scientific meeting and listen while a Soviet scientist was introduced as the inventor of the condenser—his invention.

"I asked the director how they had the nerve to do that," he said. "And he told me, 'This gives them encouragement.'"

Between and after his Russian excursions, Dubilier has been busily inventing and traveling. He's just made his 108th crossing of the Atlantic. And his inventions keep piling up. He's currently perfecting a method for cold welding. Among his other achievements: one of the first electric heaters; the first airplane radio; a submarine detector; the first AC-DC radio; the first inexpensive dental X-ray; and dozens of others.

Some of his inventions have been technically sound but practical flops. One of his biggest disappointments was a new kind of toy electric train track. His two sons were great model railroad fans, but over one summer their track rusted. So he invented a new kind —rust-proof, bendable, more realistic.

"But the electric train company," he says, "told me they made their profits on tracks replacement. So they said no, they weren't interested."

Now 67, Dubilier is a short, gray-haired, pleasant-faced man with the air of somebody's favorite uncle. He still does some research, although he's cut down his activities.

On the wall in his office is this motto: "The Alibi Bird—lives in the land of empty promises, flies backward, sits on the eggs of opportunity and hatches out only hard luck."

Dubilier has always flown forward.

Edson In Washington

By PETER EDSON

WASHINGTON—(NEA)—As is proper for a lady, Oveta Culp Hobby, Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare, has done a better job of keeping her foot out of her mouth than any other member of the Eisenhower Cabinet.

Mrs. Hobby has achieved this distinction by violating Rule Number One almost constantly, but by never, oh never violating Rule Number Two.

Rule Number One—as every government bureaucrat should know is, "Never take yourself too damn seriously." Mrs. Hobby always takes herself very seriously.

Rule Number Two is "Never say anything unless you know absolutely for sure what you're talking about."

As the exact opposite of the anonymous, giddy creature who first said, "How do I know what I think till I've said it?" Mrs. Hobby has made it a rule to say nothing till she knows what she thinks, or until somebody has told her—the facts.

BY STEADFASTLY KEEPING her mouth shut on most public occasions, there has of course been less chance of getting her foot caught in it.

Though a newspaperwoman herself, Mrs. Hobby has granted no exclusive interviews at all. The waiting list for such interviews is long. It took months to get her to talk to the National Press Club. She has held only six press conferences in two years.

These press conferences are something unique in Washington and the world. They are held in the big DHEW conference room. It is dominated by a huge mural painting of a load of hay going down a level valley in front of high white mountains. The symbolism might be for a load of government handouts headed for the high Sierras of government paperwork files, but it probably isn't.

Before this scenery stands Madam Secretary, perfectly scrubbed and groomed as always. She reads from a prepared statement, copies of which have been given to the reporters in advance. She reads slowly in a mellow contralto that soothes as it edifies. At her health program conference, she read for half an hour by clock.

THIS IS ALWAYS a great help to reporters, to have long handouts read to them. When their lips aren't chapped from the cold and their fingers aren't too calloused from pounding their typewriters, they can mouth the words and follow the lines. Let to their own wits, they don't read too well, obviously. And when the stuff is read at them, there is no chance for slips of the tongue or misquotation.

At either side of Secretary Hobby's rostrum are seated her staff. Bureau chiefs, department heads, lawyers, technicians and experts by the dozen. Sometimes they give presentations. Asst. Sec. Roswell Perkins explained the social security changes last year. Commissioner of Education Samuel Brownell explained the school aid plan this year.

These explanations are done with charis. More charts than have been seen since the days when Chester Bowles was Price Administrator. The Bowles charts were usually black and white. Mrs. Hobby goes in strictly for technicolor productions that look like Dali dreams.

Then come the questions. Mrs. Hobby allows a reporter only one question, at a time. If he knows the answer herself, she'll give it. But if she doesn't know it, you never catch the little lady from Texas off base. She calls on one of the experts to answer it. She just stands by, dominates the act and steals the scene.

BY THIS TECHNIQUE, and by never staying behind or outside of what's in the President's messages or proposals, smart Mrs. Hobby has kept herself above criticism and controversy.

With the President's health and education programs now before Congress, this is going to be Mrs. Hobby's big year. Last year, of course, the social security system was made over.

There are those who say that former Undersecretary Nelson A. Rockefeller masterminded all this. But he's a modest, quiet, behind-the-scenes spade worker. To Boss Lady Hobby will go the credit. She's doing a job.

Michigan Mirror

Michigan's resorts on the lake-shores and northern playlands are big business.

From the dunes and beaches in the west to the lakes and resorts up both sides of the state and through the upper peninsula, the industry is keeping a steady grip on Michigan's economy.

State officials came upon proof in a new set of sales tax figures.

Robert J. Furlong, executive secretary of the Michigan Tourist Council compared January to July sales tax revenue from northern counties to show the impact of the vacationer.

"Some show increases of nearly 300 per cent and others well over 200 per cent in the July over January comparison," he said.

The figures also dramatized the up and down economy of northern counties.

During January last year total sales tax receipts for the 50 counties deemed to be northern were $1,832,398 while the same counties turned in $2,912,478 during July—an increase of 58.9 per cent.

"When certain 'vacation-favorite' counties are studied individually, the percentage increases are phenomenal," he said.

Senator Elmer R. Porter (R-Blissfield), chairman of the Senate appropriations committee, is a farmer and proud of it.

He has turned over some time consuming duties to younger hands now and devotes most of his time to keeping the state's budget as near a balance as possible.

But, the Senator tends a gigantic garden during the summer months and is a gladiola farmer of more than a little talent.

Last year, he said he discovered a new kind of tomato with a shape something like a football which grows large and lush and contains less acid than others. He said:

"It doesn't seem like much to do, but I just want to keep busy."

Highways, which everyone from the experts to the motorist believe could stand some improvement, are popping up as one of the major issues of the 1955 legislative session.

What to do about them—a job estimated to cost anywhere from $500,000,000 to $7,000,000,000 — is the key to the controversy.

Opposing camps are taking shape over the pay-as-you-ride proposals and the bond issue plans, which call for long-range borrowing of the money and repaying it from increased taxes.

Rep. Emil Peltz (R-Rogers City) has sponsored a pay-as-you-ride plan with a 2-cent increase in the gasoline tax to go against a $500,000,000 bond issue with a 2-cent increase sponsored in the Senate.

Gov. Williams moved in with a "package deal" last week, reversing his stand against new taxes.

He proposed a half-cent gasoline tax increase and an additional 25 per cent weight tax (license plates) boost on all commercial vehicles.

Truckers are up in arms over the heavy load Williams is asking them to carry in taxes but the plan has been placed in the hoppers of both the House and Senate.

Meanwhile, the legislature still is holding back to wait for the Automotive Safety Foundation report of the needs in Michigan. Latest reports indicate it will be ready in November.

Best bet: Voters will have an issue on the ballot April 4 with a tax increase of some sort tagged on to pay for highway improvements.

Technically, Bingo is illegal in Michigan.

Voters at the last election turned down a proposal which would have empowered the legislature to legalize bingo and other games of chance for charitable purposes.

But, bingo still is being played in Michigan though the attitude of law enforcement officers varies.

Detroit is unbending in its pursuit of the technical violators and police officials were quoted as saying, "Bingo will have to take its chance with the other games we raid."

Grand Rapids turned up a $1,000,000 a year bingo business, but officials there said they considered it no more criminal than leaving your car beside an expired parking meter.

Despite public sanction to crack down, there was little police action since November.

One law enforcement officer in the northern part of the state had his answer ready:

"Sure it's illegal, but it's popular and it's not hurting anybody."

Taxi Bandit Hunted By Detroit Police

DETROIT (AP)—The body of a cab driver, a hunting knife imbedded in his skull, was found early Monday beside his taxi. The victim was Harry H. Code, 46. His wallet was missing.

Police sought a taxi bandit who, they said, has committed 20 hold-ups in the neighborhood during the last three months.

THE TERRIBLE PAINS OF RHEUMATISM-ARTHRITIS KEPT ME AWAKE NIGHTS

"Before using O-JIB-WA BITTERS, I couldn't even raise my arms to comb my hair," says Mrs. Charlotte Cooper-Smith, 24608 Valley St., East Detroit.

Rheumatism and arthritis in my arms, shoulders, and neck, pained so bad that I couldn't even raise my arms to comb my hair.

My neck bothered me too, as it was stiff and pained terribly when I tried to turn my head. Why, I could hardly wash clothes, as it caused my arm to pain just to have my hands in the water.

Mrs. Cooper-Smith Sleeping well at night was difficult as every-time I turned in my sleep, the pains in my neck would wake me up again. Massages, liniments, heat lamps and electric pads all made my neck stiffer. I just didn't know what to do to stop the pains. I suffered like this for about a year when a relative told me about O-JIB-WA BITTERS. He had rheumatism and arthritis in his legs and knees so bad that he could hardly walk or even stand up. O-JIB-WA had put him back on his feet, so I thought it might help me. In about three weeks I could actually feel the difference, and by the time two months had passed, I was all better. I could move my neck without fear of pain. I do all of my housework now, and sleep well every night. The good sleep helps my nerves and gives me lots of pep and ambition. Words fail to praise O-JIB-WA BITTERS enough for what it has done for me.

Warden Talks To Kiwanians

Information on the Upper Peninsula Power Co.'s proposal to take over Escanaba's electrical utility service was given to the Escanaba Kiwanis Club Monday by John Warden, president of the private power firm. The program was the first in a series arranged to acquaint members of the Kiwanis club with the facts in the local power situation.

Mr. Warden pointed out that the area served by his company included 26,000 customers in nine counties, extending from Copper Harbor to Port Inland, and that Escanaba was regarded as a logical link in the expansion program. The power firm has offered the city $1,200,000 for the municipal utilities equipment and franchise.

Add 300 Workers

Escanaba must solve its power shortage problem to keep in step with progress, the speaker declared. He said that expansion programs of existing local industries would add 300 workers here as soon as the power problem is solved. Assets in favor of Escanaba as an industrial site include high type labor availability, flat country suitable for building, abundance of water for industrial use and shipping. When an adequate power supply is assured, this city might well take the lead in the opening of new industrial horizons of the Upper Peninsula, the Kiwanians were told. The speaker answered a number of questions from the audience following his talk.

Several city officials and power company officials were guests of the Kiwanis Club at the meeting Monday. James Jackson, program chairman who presided, said that other proposed solutions of Escanaba's power problem would be covered in subsequent programs.

Warden also addressed 65 members of the supervisor's organization of the Escanaba Paper Company at the House of Ludington Monday night.

Site For Expansion

Warden told the supervisors that two of the major reasons his company wished to bring electric power to Escanaba were: one, belief that Escanaba is a logical site for economic and industrial expansion; two, that the territory fits logically into the Upper Peninsula's service area.

"The city is dependent upon the entire trade area," Warden said, "and any program which does not include the whole area will be a blow to the community's future."

He explained that a municipally owned utility was limited by law from exporting more than 25 per cent of its capacity outside of the city limits.

Warden urged that careful study be given to the entire power problem because of its ultimate effect upon the future of the community.

Airliner Debris Holds 29 Bodies

RIETI, Italy (AP)—Search crews used pick axes today to pry from icy tombs the frozen bodies of 29 victims of a Belgian airliner crash on Mt. Terminillo, high in the Apennines of central Italy.

An advance group of 40 national police and Italian airmen went about their grim task after the arrival of a special mixed Italian and Belgian commission.

Sub-zero weather and blanketing snow have prevailed since the airliner crashed nine days ago.

The plane, a Sabena Belgian Air Lines DC6, crashed at an altitude of 4,500 feet Feb. 13. All aboard perished. Four of the victims were Americans.

Luigi Rossi, a skiing instructor at a Mt. Terminillo winter resort, reported the plane appeared to have missed clearing the mountain by only 14 feet.

Francesco Mauro, prefect of Rieti Province, said there were indications would-be looters reached the scene before the official search parties.

"I have suspicions — almost proof — that somebody reached the plane before we did, possibly to loot the wreck," Mauro said. "I have ordered an investigation to find out who found the plane and failed to report it."

Rapid River Man Held On Charge Of Hit And Run

William Fluette of Rapid River is being held in the Delta County jail on charges of driving while under the influence of intoxicating liquor and of leaving the scene of a property damage accident.

The charges were the outgrowth of a traffic accident on US-241 in the village of Kipling last night at 9 when a car driven by Earl Seymour of Camp Lucas, travelling north, was sideswiped by another car. Seymour reported the accident to the Michigan State Police. An hour later police located Fluette's car damaged in the 1900 block of Delta Ave., Gladstone. Fluette was nearby and was arrested by state police. Damage to Seymour's car was estimated at $100.

Gladstone Veneer Plant Is Shut Down In Dispute

A dispute between management and labor has resulted in a shutdown of the Northwestern Veneer & Plywood Corporation plant at Gladstone, with about 155 men affected.

The trouble apparently started yesterday when employes members of Buckeye Union No. 9, a timber and millworkers union, left their jobs to attend a special union meeting.

Today the shutdown was described by management as a walk-out, and by the union as a lock-out.

Matt Faussner, plant manager, issued the following statement in connection with the dispute:

"Instead of going through in regular grievance procedure which is outlined in the contract, they walked out, which is a direct violation of the contract. They didn't give us any written notice in walking out, and no written notice has been given on when they plan to come back. When they appeared this morning the logs were cold and I could not put them back to work."

Lowell Carlson, union chairman, said the men were "locked out" and contends the contract with the company was violated. When the men reported for work this morning the gate was chained shut, he said.

The focal point of the dispute appeared to be a change in the job of one man. Faussner said a new man had bid for and got the job in a change of operations.

3 Townships Hold Primaries

Incumbent supervisors were defeated for renomination in two of the three primary elections in Delta County townships yesterday.

Henry Hughes was defeated in Escanaba township by John Sharkey and Chester Peak was defeated in Ford River township by Phil Miron. In the third contest Mrs. Ernest Carlson won renomination in Baldwin township, defeating Henry Gustafson.

The results of the primary elections follow:

Escanaba Township—For supervisor, Henry Hughes (incumbent) 133, John J. Sharkey 179; for clerk, William Beauchamp 195, Vincent Rappette 121; for treasurer, Edmond J. Soper 121; for board of review, Mose Theoret; for constable, Daniel Barron.

Strike Drags On

DETROIT (AP)—Company representatives and officials of the United Mine Workers (Ind.) union were to resume negotiations today in another attempt to settle the 21-day-old strike of 2,300 employes at the Wyandotte Chemicals Corp. The strike was called in a dispute over a new contract.

Letters To The Editor

U. P. WEATHER

Dear Editor:

Mr. Harold Earle's recent letter to the Press was right to the point, but I doubt if we'll ever get it out of the heads of folks below the Straits, at least until the bridge is finished, the vague idea that the isolated Upper Peninsula is a region somewhere up around the North Pole, inhabited mostly by bears, wolves and porcupines, and a few hardy aborigines, Esquimaux maybe, who hibernate under 6 feet of snow at 40° below zero for 8 months and only come out with the ground hogs in the spring to dig for a few roots to live on, which last is partly true, because the champion potato growers of Michigan all live in the Upper Peninsula.

A visitor from below this Christmas was "surprised" at our "unusual" weather. I reminded him that California had the copyright on "unusual weather" and we never get it. I had just planted a bed of tulips in our garden that bright sunny morning, with the temp. around 40°, which perhaps was a "teeny bit" unusual, although I once had splendid results from a bed planted on Dec. 31.

Our family spent the summer of 1915 at Mountain View in the Santa Clara Valley about 60 miles south of San Francisco. On July 4th, we drove in to the city to see the Exposition. Driving home that night, even with the "usual" overcoat on, I almost froze. Our 3 kids and the 2 Fuller girls got down in a heap on the floor of the tonneau, and Mrs. Crowe, Alta and Nettie Fuller huddled as close together as they could to keep warm.

My granddaughter, Ann McGlothlin, an associate editor of the Michigan State Daily, tried to put them right when fellow students asked how she lived in that "deep freeze" country, but soon gave it up, and now has fun telling them fairy tales about our wild winters and still wilder animals. Making it ridiculous by exaggeration to the point of absurdity is probably as good a way as any to combat false propaganda.

It is hard to get the truth across in the face of persistent propaganda. For example:

The beliefs that the old time lumbermen were "Robber Barons" who "stole their timber," "cut round fancies" and "cared not a damn for the country," and that the lumberjacks were a "hell raising mob of tough timber beasts who thought only of women and whiskey" still persist, fostered by sensational writers.

By request, I am getting out a second edition of the booklet, "Lumberjack," with some added chapters to give a broader historic interest, and will try to correct these false ideas. Being head bookkeeper for one of the largest lumber companies in Michigan for 7 years during the peak of their operations in the "gay nineties," and dealing personally with their 1500 lumberjacks, I know the truth about them.

Let's get down to "brass tacks" about our so called "sub zero" U. P. climate.

Official weather reports published in the Press, showing the lowest recorded temperatures on the days tabulated, may surprise some folks. We have no Weather Bureau at Manistique, so I selected Marquette up on Lake Superior, 42 miles north of us for comparison with Chicago. I hope Chicago will not mind too much.

I could make an even more striking comparison by substituting Lower Peninsula points for Chicago, but loyalty to my adopted state forbids. We still love them down there, no matter what they say about us. We know we were wished on them like an unwanted baby in the settlement of the "Toledo Strip" war, but have tried to make it up to them with our forest products, copper and iron, parks and playgrounds. We really would like them to notice us. Maybe the bridge will help.

Why is Manistique warmer in winter and cooler in summer than any other town in the Upper Peninsula, and much more so than Minneapolis, 350 miles west and 76 miles south of us? Because the Great Lakes are a natural thermostat for the Upper Peninsula, and Manistique is an open port on Lake Michigan with boats coming and going all winter.

Some of our local folks, I am sorry to say, don't appreciate our warm winters and cool summers, and persist in hiking off to that "old folks home" they call Florida where they have so many fleas, and the moccasins they have, you don't wear them on your feet, or to Texas where everything either sticks, stings or stinks, and the "wide open spaces" are all fenced in, and some cattleman is liable to shoot you if you trespass.

I have been colder in Florida, Texas and California than I have ever been in Northern Michigan, where we do know how to build comfortable homes and enjoy the change of seasons.

Yours truly,
Wm. S. Crowe

Improved Highways Save Lives, Solons Told By Eisenhower

for improvement and new construction."

Under the Eisenhower program, the federal government would pay about 31 1/4 billion dollars of the contemplated 101 billions of expenditures.

Eisenhower said he was forwarding to Congress the Clay report and that he would send along shortly a survey of highway needs now being completed by the Bureau of Public Roads. These reports, he said, "provide a solid foundation for a sound program."

Eisenhower listed "the preliminary 10 year totals of needs" as the following:

Interstate network, joining 90 per cent of all cities over 50,000 population—23 billion dollars.

Primary system, connecting all principal cities and manufacturing areas—30 billions.

Secondary system, including farm-to-market roads—15 billions. Other streets and roads including urban feeder streets—33 billions.

Sideroads Included
Of this sum the federal government would put up 25 billions for the interstate system, 5 1/4 billions for primary and secondary roads, 750 million for urban streets and 225 million for national forest highways.

The apparent discrepancy between the proposed federal government's 25 billion expenditure for the interstate network and the figure of 23 billions for work cost is a bookkeeping matter.

Part of the federal money would go into urban access roads. With state money, the actual total, including the access roads for the interstate network would be 27 billions.

The President's message said the interstate system should "be given top priority in construction planning."

Rival Bill Introduced

Eisenhower noted that the Clay committee had recommended that the federal government continue giving aid to primary and secondary road system on a 50-50 matching basis with the states at the level called for in highway legislation enacted by Congress last year.

Sen. Gore (D-Tenn.), chairman of the Senate Public Roads subcommittee has introduced a rival highway bill which would continue the current matching program but would increase by 725 million dollars a year the federal share in the program. Gore emphasized his bill called not only for stepped up work on the interstate system but also on the primary and secondary roads.

Lake Waterway And Soo Locks Lauded By U. M. President

LANSING (AP)—Dr. Harlan Hatcher, President of the University of Michigan, Monday lauded the Soo Locks and the Great Lakes waterways system as the "Key to the supremacy of our nation."

Dr. Hatcher spoke briefly to the Legislature before the showing of a film honoring the locks' centennial this year.

From the outset, Michigan has been the leader in the development of the Great Lakes waterways, Dr. Hatcher remarked.

"We have to bring our young people a consciousness of the leadership of the state in developing the waterway and of the great heritage of Michigan," he said.

Boy, 11, Takes Off In Father's Car

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP)—"Oh, no, not my boy!" exclaimed Pedro Tamayo when state highway patrolmen telephoned that his son had been intercepted at Hunter, Tex., in the father's automobile.

Hunter is 50 miles on a back road to San Antonio. "My boy is only 11 and not old enough to drive," Papa Pedro explained to the police. "Why, he could barely see over the dashboard."

Whereupon Papa Pedro hung up. The police called right back. "We do have your boy," they insisted. "Look around and see if you can find him at home."

Papa Pedro found the boy and his car—both gone.

The boy, Robert, wanted to attend a play at St. Mary's University in San Antonio, where a brother is in school, but his parents had decided the weather was too cold for the trip, Papa Pedro said later.

Robert couldn't back the automobile out of the family garage so he pushed it out, he told officers.

Then he loaded into the car a shotgun and shells for protection against perils of the road, two apples, a loaf of bread and a jug of water.

At Hunter, Highway Patrolman Don Breslin wasn't sure, he said, that the car, stopped in a radar trap, had a driver.

But officers said Robert came to a smooth stop, turned off the ignition and set the emergency brake with the aplomb of a veteran when they signaled a stop.

Robert said he had never driven before but had known how a long time.

"I just watch my father," he told officers.

Perplexed Papa Pedro asked a reporter:

"What do I do now?"

Relief Cases Below Average For Season

LANSING (AP)—The number of direct relief cases in January was slightly below average for the season, the State Department of Social Welfare said today.

Direct relief cases during the month totaled 21,756—an increase of 291 over December.

William J. Maxey, Director of the Social Welfare Department, said the below-normal case load reflected a "Better economic situation in Detroit."

Hollenbach Saturday, Feb. 19, at 10 a. m. at St. Patrick's Church. The bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Pepin Sr. of Gladstone Rte. 1.

Gladious and snapdragons in mixed shades decorated the altars for the Nuptial High Mass. The music was sung by St. Patrick's Choir.

The bride given in marriage by her uncle, Joseph Bellin, wore a chapel length gown of white Chantilly lace over nylon net with jacket of matching lace. Her fingertip veil of nylon net was caught to a cononet of seed pearls. She carried a cascade of white feathered carnations and pink roses.

Bridal Attendants

Miss Darlene Rouse, her sister, maid of honor, and Mrs. Arthur Berndt, a sister of the bridegroom, bridesmaid, wore gowns of pink and blue nylon net over taffeta, ballerina length, and matching headdresses. They carried bouquets of pink carnations. Vincent Rouse, brother of the bride, was best man and Mr. Berndt served as groomsmen. The guests were seated by Donald Christensen and John R. Carlson.

Mrs. Rouse selected a pale blue dress with matching accessories for her daughter's wedding. Mrs. Pepin was in navy blue.

A reception followed by a wedding dance was held at the Knights of Columbus Hall. Miss Donna Hurley, a cousin of the bride, poured, and Miss Mary Lu Maki assisted in serving the wedding cake.

Study Of Services For Children At League Meeting

Foster home care, institutions for mentally disturbed children, detention of children, and agencies that help children in other ways were discussed at the regular meeting of the League of Women Voters at Carnegie Library last evening.

Mrs. Jesse Pomazal, local continuing responsibilities chairman, led the discussion on this program item of the state League.

The League of Women Voters has had the children services as a study item since 1947. In its study the League used the "Little Hoover Report", the Foster Care Study, the Norman Report, and the Michigan Youth Commission Study. Mrs. Pomazal cited case histories of "gapisis" and overlapping in the agencies handling juvenile work.

"All studies on better services for children stress the need for adequate placing of responsibility and also more trained personnel," she noted. "Unification at a county level would be a progressive step."

At the business meeting following the program, the nominating committee presented its slate of officers. The members will vote on the slate, the budget, and the study items for the next fiscal year at the annual business meeting, March 21.

It was recommended by the members that the current items of study on the local level be continued for another year. The present items are "Know Your County" and measures to promote sound council-manager government in Escanaba.

The next meeting of the League will be held March 7 at 8 p. m. in the Carnegie Public Library.

Dearborn housewife says, "Hospital bills don't cost us borrowed money now!"

"It's the most wonderful feeling when you don't have to borrow money to pay hospital and doctor bills," says Mrs. Filer. "That's the way it is with us, now that we've got Blue Cross - Blue Shield. When I had to be in the hospital for forty-nine days . . . just the hospital bill was around $1,000! We were completely covered, under our Blue Cross Comprehensive Contract. In addition to that, Blue Shield paid $137 for medical services I needed. There weren't any forms to fill out, and we didn't have to wait for any payments. Everything happened automatically!"

What if this were your year to have a hospital bill? There's a 1 in 3 chance that it will be! Wouldn't you and your family be a lot better off if you had protection like the kind that saved over $1,100 for Mrs. Filer?

Join the over 3 million Michigan people who have Blue Cross - Blue Shield. Find out how you can get low-cost group coverage for hospital and doctor bills. CONTRACT BRIDGE

By Josephine Culbertson

A FOOLISH FINESSE

THE finesse South took at Trick 1 in the following deal was nothing but an expensive luxury.

South dealer.
Both sides vulnerable.

♠ A 6	♥ K 10 5	♦ 10 8 6	♣ A 5 4 3 2
♠ J 9 7 4 3	♥ 6 3	♦ K 9	♣ K 8 6
♠ Q 10 8	♥ A 9	♦ A Q J 7 4 3	♣ 7
♠ K 5 2	♥ J 8 7 4 2	♦ 5 2	♣ Q J 10

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 ♦	Pass	2 ♣	Pass
2 NT	Pass	3 NT	Pass
Pass	Pass

When North answered the diamond opening with two clubs, South felt that his own hand was too good for a minimum diamond rebid and not good enough for a jump rebid, so he "compromised" by bidding two notrump. This was an unfortunate decision. If South had simply rebid two diamonds, North would have been the one to mention notrump, and with East making the opening lead, South scarcely could have gone wrong.

South should have done just as well from his side, but West's low spade opening gave him a fine chance to slip, and South seized this opportunity. He played low from dummy—and from that moment on he was in trouble. East took the trick, and, reading the spade situation, shifted to the club queen. Declarer held up dummy's ace, but the defenders persisted, and when the vital diamond finesse lost, South was helpless.

South was very foolish at Trick 1 when he failed to put up the spade ace. The crux of this hand was to establish the diamonds as quickly as possible, and if the diamond finesse lost, it would lose to West. That defender, after winning with the diamond king, could not make a damaging return. South would still have protection in spades, in his Q-10, and would have plenty of tricks for the contract even if he never got a second spade trick.

Even with a five-card club suit in dummy, there was obvious danger to declarer in that direction, and since two spade tricks were not needed for the contract, South certainly should have put up the spade ace to prevent the club shift.

George Washington Knew How To Make Home-Brewed Beer

AP Newsfeatures

George Washington believed in doing it himself. In at least two instances he left how-to-do-it instructions in his own handwriting.

His directions on how to paper a room and how to make home brew still are available. Although Washington's recipe for beer is not appropriate for modern do-it-yourself fans because of federal and state laws which have been passed since his time, it serves as a reminder that Mount Vernon belonged to an older self-contained economy.

Such big estates made many things for themselves that are now bought in stores. Washington's interest in such operations was indicated when he wrote out the beer recipe. It reads:

"To make small beer—

"Take a large sifter full of bran. Hops to your taste—Boil these 3 hours, then strain out 30 gallons into a cooler. Put in 3 gallons molasses while the beer is scalding hot or rather draw the molasses into the cooler and strain the beer on it while boiling hot. Let this stand till it is little more than blood warm. Then put in a quart of yeast. If the weather is very cold cover it over with a blanket and let it work in the cooler 24 hours, then put it into the cask. Leave the bung open until it is almost done working—Bottle it the day it was brewed."

The directions for papering a room read almost as if they had been prepared in a modern suburban residence. Washington wanted to paper the banquet room at Mount Vernon for a dinner in honor of the Marquis de Lafayette.

He ordered wall paper from France. A very modern touch was injected when he was unable to get a paper hanger in time to do the job before the banquet. And just like today's home owner he did the job himself, helped by his aid-de-camp and Lafayette.

Martha Washington, like many wives before and since, bossed the job.

Washington was so pleased with the results that he sat down to record the directions. The Wallpaper Council has found the instructions among some of his old papers. They read:

"If the walls have been white-washed (brush) over the glew.

If not—simple and common paste is sufficient without any other mixture, but in either case, the paste must be made of the finest and best flour, free from lumps. The paste is to be made thick and may be thinned by putting water to it.

"The paste is to be put upon the paper and suffered to remain about five minutes to soak in before it is put up, then with a cloth press it against the wall, until all parts stick. If there be ripples—anywhere, put a large piece of paper thereon and then rub them out with cloth as before mentioned."

MANISTIQUE

Caland Mine Progress Told

A progress report on development of an iron mine beneath Steep Rock lake, 130 miles west of Port Arthur, Ont., Can., was presented for the Manistique Rotary club Monday noon by A. J. Cayia Sr., vice president and general manager of Caland Ore Company, Ltd.

Testing operations with two dredges, which will pump an estimated 160 million cubic yards of silt from the lake, are scheduled to be started March 1, Cayia told Rotarians. One dredge will begin operating May 1 and one July 1.

Colored films of developments at Atikokan were shown by the Inland Steel official. These included scenes of house construction, launching of the two 36-inch dredges, the 5½-mile double pipeline through which water and silt will be pumped into another lake, roads constructed for the operations, and large machinery at work.

The mine is scheduled to begin producing ore in 1960, Cayia stated, but before deposits can be reached the lake must be drained and silt removed. The lake will have to be re-filled with water 12 times in order to remove all of the silt, which was deposited by glaciers, he noted.

Since April, the Inland Steel subsidiary has had 50 houses built, constructed the dual pipeline, built roads and assembled the two dredges, transporting material and heavy equipment over rough terrain in the Canadian area is a problem in itself, the official stated.

The Caland mine will operate open-pit for the first few years and then will be converted to shaft operations, Cayia said. It is expected to yield 50 million tons of iron ore, the equivalent of that on the Mesabi range. When in operation, the mine is expected to produce three million tons per year. Drilling for the deposits was started in 1948.

St. Francis Cagers Nip St. Anne's Of Escanaba, 39-36

St. Francis de Sales cagers avenged an earlier 28-25 defeat here Saturday night by taking a 39-36 victory over St. Anne's of Escanaba.

Ron Rubick and Bob Popour each poured 12 points through the nets to lead in scoring for the Manistique team, and Phil Dixner bucketed 10 points. The visiting team's scoring attack was led by Boudreau with a game high of 14 points.

St. Francis started off with a 15-4 lead at the end of the first quarter, but was held back in the second when St. Anne cagers bucketed 18 points, twice as many as the host team. Scoring in the third and fourth quarters was neck and neck for the inter-school teams, and St. Anne's bowed 39-36.

A total of 14 field goals and 11 free throws were scored by the Manistique squad while St. Anne's had 15 field goals and 6 from the free throw line.

Weekend guests of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Saunders, 359 Lake St., were their son and daughter-in-law and family, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Saunders and Susan, Sally and Linda Kaye, of Milwaukee, Wis.

GOLDEN GLOVES NOTES: Harvard Lancour, Manistique's capable featherweight champion, had an opportunity to work out with the highly-regarded German middleweight title contender, Peter Mueller, between the semifinals and the championships in the Milwaukee Journal Golden Gloves tournament. Ed Toyra, Manistique boxing coach, helped Vern Olli of Marquette to the novice welterweight title by taking care of a badly swollen jaw, caused by an abscessed tooth, before the physical exam for the finals Saturday afternoon. John Theobald of Marshfield, the new open division lightweight champ in Milwaukee, is the same fighter who eliminated Escanaba's Ron Vanderlinden in the semifinals of the 135 novice division last year. Milwaukee tournament fans were very much impressed with the two small fighters from Marinette, Frank Dory and Jim McVane, who won 112 and 118 pound titles. Dory is the son of a former professional fighter from Marinette. Young Buddy Holmberg of Manistique, the new novice featherweight champ of the U. P. and Wisconsin, carries a lot of power in his 126-pound frame. He was a varsity letterman on the Manistique football team last fall.

Dick St. Arnaud of Iron Mountain had a red hot night for himself as the Mountaineers trimmed Ironwood 109-63 Saturday. The big Mountaineer pivotman pumped 54 points through the hoops, one of the highest individual totals in U. P. history.

BOWLING NOTES: The Thursday Night Women's League in Gladstone had a number of oddities last week. No less than six splits of the 3-7-10 variety were picked up, two by Bert Beaudry of Beaudry's team, two by Micky Esler of Hughes Motors, one by Eve Johnson of Beaudry's and one by Micky Naylor of DuRoys. And Vonnice Liernier of Kelly's rolled consecutive games of 110, 111 and 112. The Yacht Club team composed of Margaret Long, Mabel Hamilton, Lois LaFond and Madelyn Archambeau rolled another big series last week, picking up 2303 pins. In Escanaba, Aileen Kroll of the KC Ladies Wednesday Minor League rolled games of 111, 133 and 144 for a 388 series.

Houghton Repeats As U. P. Prep Ski Champ

The Houghton High School took top honors for the fourth consecutive year in the U. P. Regional High School Ski Meet held Saturday at the Michigan Tech Ski Area. However, its top position in high school skiing appears to be weakened as a high percentage of both its boys and girls ski teams will graduate this year.

The Houghton School Ski teams received both the boys and girls trophies and 18 of the 30 medals provided by the Michigan High School Athletic Association. Of the remaining 12 medals, seven went to Iron Mountain, two to Kingsford and one each to Hancock, Ironwood and Munising. Medals were provided for the top five contestants in the downhill, slalom, jumping, and cross country events.

Fifty-two boys and 31 girls representing eight Upper Peninsula High Schools participated in this ski meet. Each year the activity has increased and the quality of competition has improved.

In the boys team standings, the Iron Mountain High School placed second, Kingsford third, Ironwood fourth, Ontonagon fifth, Hancock sixth, and Munising 7th. In the girls team standings, Hancock placed second, Iron Mountain third, and Kingsford fourth.

Outstanding boys skiers in the meet were Charles Ferries, Ted Nelson, Richard Warden and Ken Wenberg of Houghton, Jim Ring, Bill Higgins, Tony Nissen, Glen Winters, and Don Polkinghorne of Iron Mountain, Gary Osterberg and Dick Hansen of Kingsford, Bruce Cherry of Munising, and Jack Sheridan of Ironwood.

Outstanding girl skiers were Nora Foley, Mona Weber, Sue Fenske and Mary Aldrich of Houghton, Diane Thade of Iron Mountain, and Gertrude Nicholas of Hancock.

The ski meet was sponsored by Hancock High School and was governed by a race committee consisting of Robert Curtis, Hancock teacher; Albert Treado, Kingsford principal; and Fred Lundorf, Michigan Tech ski coach.

Spartans Tied For Fourth In Standings

EAST LANSING — Michigan State was tied with Northwestern for fourth place in the Western Conference basketball standings today after weathering a sloppy second half and managing to edge the Wildcats, 71-69.

Both teams now have 6-6 Big Ten records. The Spartans blew a 14-point, 40-26, halftime lead on their home court Monday night and had to freeze the ball and depend on free throws for the narrow winning margin.

The only MSC conference loss on the home court this year was last Saturday's 78-69 beating by Iowa. After the first half runaway, the Spartans slowed in the second half and couldn't make a single point during one 4-minute interval. The Wildcats climbed back to lead 55-44 with 8 minutes remaining.

Michigan State was in possession and led 68-67 with less than two minutes to go when coach Fordy Anderson ordered a freeze. Guard Jim Harris made three points on foul shots while Northwestern could manage only one basket before the clock clicked to zero.

With only two games remaining, Michigan State now appears to have a good chance for a first division finish. Even one victory and one loss would leave the Spartans in the first division.

MSC plays Indiana here next Monday and finishes the season March 5 against Michigan at Ann Arbor. Both opponents are below the Spartans in the current standings.

Back row: Dennis Arley, Jerry Leander, Charles Cole, Jerry Anderson, J. C. Miller and Tom Brewer. DETROIT —The Detroit Red Wings moved into a tie for first place in the National Hockey League last night—but at the same time saw their hopes for another championship suffer a blow.

The Red Wings fought from behind for a 2-2 tie with the busy Boston Bruins at Olympia Stadium.

The deadlock moved the Wings into a first place tie with Montreal, each team having 76 points in the standings.

But the Canadiens have the advantage of playing three more games than the Red Wings. The fading days of February find Detroit with 10 games to go, compared to Montreal's 13.

The Red Wings pressured Boston most of the way last night in an effort to take sole possession of the league lead. But the Bruins, youngest and most promising team in the league, refused to crack.

Alex Delvecchio, snapping out of a month long slump, drilled in his 13th goal late in the first period to send the Wings into a 1-0 lead.

The Bruins, however, bounced back and took a 2-1 lead on rapid fire goals by Ed Sandford and Don McKenney in the second period.

Sandro Sanford scored on a close-in swipe, while McKenney clicked with a 20-foot backhand.

McKenney's moment of glory was short lived. A minute after his goal, Marcel Pronovost ripped through Boston's defense and scored the tying goal with a quick 10-foot shot.

The deadlock left the Bruins without a win on Olympia ice since Oct. 31, 1953—a stretch of 13 games.

Iowa rolled to a surprising 89-70 victory Monday night over Illinois and never gave the Illini a chance to come within nine points of the lead in the second half.

Half Game Behind
The triumph enabled the Hawks to stay one-half game behind Minnesota's league-leading Gophers, who stumbled through a 71-69 victory over Wisconsin.

In other games Monday night, Ohio State upset Michigan, 72-68, behind a 29-point outburst by Capt. John Miller; Indiana defeated Purdue 75-64, and Michigan State moved into a fourth-place tie

Iowa Is Serious Threat To Gopher Title Hopes

CHICAGO —Iowa's title-happy Hawkeyes, caring little whether they play at home or on the road, today emerged a serious threat to Minnesota's title hopes.

Given little more than an even chance to split their last two road games against Michigan State and Illinois, the Hawkeyes not only won but did it with authority.

Iowa has an Iowa City meeting with Michigan Saturday before its showdown battle with Minnesota at Minneapolis Monday.

Iowa rolled to a surprising 89-70 victory Monday night over Illinois and never gave the Illini a chance to come within nine points of the lead in the second half.

Half Game Behind
The triumph enabled the Hawks to stay one-half game behind Minnesota's league-leading Gophers, who stumbled through a 71-69 victory over Wisconsin.

In other games Monday night, Ohio State upset Michigan, 72-68, behind a 29-point outburst by Capt. John Miller; Indiana defeated Purdue 75-64, and Michigan State moved into a fourth-place tie with Northwestern by dropping the Wildcats, 71-69.

Chuck Mencil and Dick Garmaker once again were the rallying factors in Minnesota's harrowing triumph. Trailing 34-41 at half-time Garmaker and Mencil, kept the Gophers within range until the final seconds when Mencil hooked in the winning basket.

Until that point, the Gophers had trailed from the time Wisconsin broke an early 18-18 tie.

Dick Miller High
Garmaker finished with 28 points—20 of them in the second half—and Mencil 23. Wisconsin's Dick Miller was high scorer with 31 points.

Iowa had no such difficulties. The Hawks broke a 17-17 tie with Illinois and rushed to a 25-17 lead. Illinois came within three points of the lead at halftime only to see Iowa take a commanding 11 point lead three minutes into the second half.

The best Illinois could do after that was to come within nine points of the Hawkeyes.

Iowa, led by Bill Logan, fired a blistering 492 from the field. Logan connected on 10 of 16 attempts.

Sugar Ray To Box Small On March 5
BOSTON —Sugar Ray Robinson, whose boxing comeback hit a roadblock in the person of Ralph (Tiger) Jones, has signed to meet George Small of Brooklyn in a 10-rounder at Boston Garden March 5.

The Callahan A. C., said Monday night there will be no television or broadcast of the bout.

Manistique, however, Negaunee will have an opportunity to take the 1954-55 crown. The Miners have won seven against two losses and play a home game against Munising Friday night. A Negaunee win and a Gladstone loss would give the Miners a higher league percentage than the Braves.

In the previous meeting between the Braves and the Emeralds, Gladstone took a home-floor 71-60 victory.

The Emeralds have won their last four games and have a season record of eight wins and seven losses. They have lost only one at home, dropping a two-point verdict to Soo in the season opener.

The Braves have a string of seven straight victories on the record book and for the entire season have won 12 against only three defeats.

Five Manistique cagers will be playing their final game Friday night. They are Bob Corson, Ken Dixon, Bill Holm, Don Anderson and Bob Hastings. Starters will be Corson and Dixon at forwards, Hastings at center and Holm and Ed Bernier at guards.

In the opening lineup for Gladstone will be Roger Carlson and Jack Beach at forwards, John Quinn at center, Norm Butler and Larry Feldt at guards. Quinn is the team's top scorer with 289 points in 14 games for an average of 20 points per start.

Grimm Feels Braves Are Pretty Well Set In Most Positions

By CHARLIE GRIMM
Manistique Braves Manager
ROBERTSVILLE, Mo. —The Braves are pretty well set in all positions. There are only two that might be called in doubt — right field and at second base.

We think our Milwaukee club has some good talent in our young pitchers and hitters like Chuck Tanner and George Crowe. Tanner had a fine year with Atlanta and should give us the long ball. Crowe should help us.

Cincinnati will be in the thick of things if it gets some pitching.

You've got to consider the Giants, Dodgers and Cards in the running, and the Phils, who didn't hit too well last year, will be a fine club with the addition of several young players who are coming up.

Our club is set at first, third, shortstop, left and center field and behind the bat. Andy Pafko, 13-year veteran in the National League, must meet the challenge in right field of sophomore Henry Aaron. Danny O'Connell, regular second baseman in 1954, will have to win the post all over again from Jack Dittmer.

Bobby Thomson, of course, will be in left and bat in the cleanup position. Billy Bruton looks like the center fielder. Jim Pendleton is the fifth outfielder. Tanner appears to have an excellent chance to stick.

Pitching? We'll lead with Warren Spahn, Lew Burdette and Gene Conley. Chet Nichols, Bob Buhl and Ray Crone have a good chance to win starting berths. Ernie Johnson, Dave Kelly and Dave Koslo will form the first line of relievers.

Garmaker Retains Big 10 Scoring Lead
CHICAGO —Big Ten basketball scoring leaders held their own during the week with no marked changes in the standings.

Minnesota's Dick Garmaker continued to set the scoring pace with 496 points but remained less than a point per game behind Indiana's Don Schlundt on averages.

Garmaker retained his 24.8 average for 20 games while Schlundt, with 483 points in 19 games, had a 25.4 average.

Only two changes took place during the week. Ohio State's John Miller moved up from 8th to 7th place and Michigan State's Julius McCoy jumped from 12th to 11th place.

Mighty Kentucky, beaten only twice all season, nevertheless is being forced to fight right down to the end of the season for the Southeastern Conference championship and a berth in the NCAA Tournament.

Adolph Rupp's charges have three league games left and they're tied with Alabama for the lead, each with 9-2.

Kentucky, playing without 6-7 Phil Cooke, who broke his leg last week, whipped Vanderbilt Monday night 77-59.

Their game at Lexington next Monday looms as the key to the championship.

Bob Burrow was the big gun for the Wildcats, scoring 31 points, as Kentucky led from the start.

In the Big Ten, Iowa knocked Illinois 89-70. The victory kept Iowa in second place, half a game behind Minnesota, which edged Wisconsin 71-69. The Gophers, seeking their first undisputed league title since 1919, were behind most of the way.

In other Big Ten games, none of which had any bearing on the championship, Indiana whipped Purdue for the 13th straight time 75-62; Michigan State held on to outlast Northwestern 71-69; and Ohio State turned back Michigan 72-68.

North Carolina State clinched at least a share of the Atlantic Coast Conference crown and the Wolfpack didn't even play. Wake Forest dropped Maryland 75-71. The Terps' defeat means they can't win the league race outright.

Tulsa kept alive its hopes of winning the Missouri Valley championship by routing Houston 69-59.

Oklahoma, Big Seven cellar team, upset Nebraska 78-76 on Lester Lane's 25-foot jump shot with five seconds to play.

In other major games, Notre Dame came out on top of Kansas State 76-74; Tulane vanquished Auburn 90-79; Georgia Tech halted Tennessee 83-77, and Florida topped Mississippi 78-72.

An Announcement!

We are now happy to report that plans for the formation of an organization to consolidate and coordinate local community support for our Escanaba Hawks hockey team are well underway.

We wish to state clearly that our one and only purpose is to save our hockey team from the "no-attendance" graveyard.

Our group, which will be known as the S-O-H-T (Save Our Hockey Team) Volunteers, will leave no stone unturned in our efforts to banish forever the ridiculous idea that hockey will never pay its own way in Escanaba merely because of antipathy on the part of our sports fans.

In our opinion the hockey team is one of the most valuable community resources available to Escanaba citizens today, and we don't want to see it die. We believe that the loss of our hockey team would be a civic tragedy of serious consequences to the recreational future of our city.

We need the help and support of every person in Escanaba who believes with us that we should do our utmost to keep hockey alive in our city. We hope to enlist the aid of every Escanaba resident who shares our views in this matter so vital to the sports future of our community.

The S-O-H-T VOLUNTEERS

Reminder: Don't forget our mass meeting at the Fair Grounds Rink next Sunday afternoon at 2:15 p. m.

Reservations can be made at Gust Asp's or by calling Mrs. Rod Beauchamp at 2224.

San Francisco Rated Top Collegiate Quint

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
When West Virginia's Mountaineers took George Washington's Colonials into camp last Saturday 83-74, they did more than just take a tight hold on the Southern Conference basketball lead. They shook the Colonials loose from fifth place in the weekly Associated Press ranking poll and dropped them clear down to 10th.

That was the only important change in the rankings as the sports writers and broadcasters gave tournament-bound San Francisco a thumping vote of confidence today.

San Francisco, winner of 20 of its 21 games and already named as an "at-large" entry in the NCAA Tournament, drew 65 of the 110 first-place votes and 953 points. Second-place Kentucky had 11 firsts and 758 points.

The leaders, with first-place votes in parentheses:

1. San Francisco (65)	953
2. Kentucky (11)	758
3. LaSalle (3)	622
4. Duquesne (2)	611
5. Marquette (8)	580

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—A federal court may have to pick decide just who is the world's pocket billiards champion.

A two-year dispute over the issue exploded again here Monday when Willie Mosconi filed a $200,000 suit against what he said are "pretendings" to the title.

Mosconi named both Luther Lassiter, self-styled champion from Elizabeth City, N. C., and Lassiter's challenger, Irving Crane, Binghamton, N. Y. Lassiter won a title last year in what Mosconi describes as a "maverick tournament."

Mosconi, 41, contends he is the only pocket billiards champion recognized by the Billiards Congress of America.

The suit was filed specifically against Lassiter, Crane and the Allinger Billiards Academy, sponsor of the presently billed world pocket billiards championship that opened here Monday.

Mosconi is defending the title he claims against Joe Procta in another billiard establishment just five blocks away. Procta was runner-up to Mosconi in 1953.

Many leading billiard players, including Lassiter and Crane, contend Mosconi will not defend his title against them. As a result, Lassiter said, the group got together and ran its own championship competition here last year. Mosconi says he wasn't invited to participate in this tourney.

Crane defended Lassiter twice Monday, 150-111 and 150-30 in five innings.

In the Mosconi-Procta duel, Mosconi won 150-79 and 150-30.

Both tourneys continue through the week.

Neil Johnston Tops Pro Cage Scorers

NEW YORK (AP)—Neil Johnston, Philadelphia's 6-8 center, is on top of the National Basketball Assn. scoring parade today with 1,282 points in 57 games for an average of 22.5. His teammate, Paul Arizin, has 1,199 points.

Rookie Frank Selvy of the Milwaukee Hawks, who held the lead for 11 out of the first 15 weeks, slipped to fifth place with 1,168.

Boston's Bob Cousy is in third spot with 1,179 followed by Milwaukee's Bob Pettit with 1,177.

Larry Foust of the Fort Wayne Pistons slipped below the 50 percent mark in field goal accuracy for the first time in five weeks, but his 49.0 still leads the league.

In the only game played Monday night, Minneapolis moved to within three games of the league leading Pistons by defeating the Rochester Royals 112-110 at Sepulcher, Iowa. The game was played under protest by the Royals.

Russians Rap U. S. Hockey

DUESSEL DORF, Germany (AP)—Russian charges of "American hooliganism" and Czechoslovakian claims that Canadians play "wild west hockey" made officials of the world ice hockey championships cross their fingers today and hope for the best.

The world championships, causing all the furore, open simultaneously here and in three other West German cities Friday.

Russia won the championships in Stockholm last March — defeating Canada 7-2 — despite the vast difference in their types of play.

The European version abhors excessive body checking, stick-swinging and many other phases of the American-Canadian play.

Two weeks ago, a Russian sports magazine said Al Yourkewicz, coach of the American team, was a "hooligan and a rowdy" who went in for dirty play and taught his team bad tricks. Yourkewicz denied the Russian claims.

The Russians and the Americans meet March 2 in Krefeld, Canada sent its representative, the Penitonic, Alberta, team, behind the Iron Curtain Monday to play the Czechoslovakians. The game in Prague was a draw but the Canadians won a jim dandy of a fistfight.

A Czech radio commentator said the Canadians played "wild west hockey". Bill Warick of the Canadians spent 17 minutes in the penalty box.

Argentine Boxer Registers TKO

NEW YORK (AP)—The gallery mob chanted "Merentino" and cowbells rang out for Rinzi Nocero Monday night at old St. Nicholas Arena while the newest Argentine import, Rafael Merentino, chopped up the 23-year-old Brooklyn rookie.

The free-swinging middleweight battle was stopped at the end of the eighth because of Nocero's eye cuts.

Nocero was sliced around both eyes but a gash over the right eye that required six stitches was the decisive factor. It turned out later he had injured his right thumb (probably a fracture) in the third round.

Merentino weighed 158½, Nocero 159½.

Carmelo Costa, 20-year-old Brooklyn featherweight, has evened an old score with Bobby Bell and needs only a victory over Rudy Garcia to balance the two defeats on his 29-bout record.

Costa lost to Bell in December but Monday night at Eastern Parkway Arena in Brooklyn, he squared accounts. All three officials scored it 9-1. Costa weighed 130½, Bell 126.

Reporting Rents And Annuities

(Eighth of 12 articles)

Written for NEA Service
By RICHARD A. MULLENS

This article takes up the last three schedules for reporting income on Form 1040. It will help you if you have income from pensions or annuities, rents and royalties, and miscellaneous items of income such as prizes and awards.

There have been a number of changes in Schedule E (Page 2 of Form 1040) used for reporting income from pensions and annuities.

Under the old law, annuity payments were taxed annually on three per cent of the cost of the annuity until the amount received tax-free equalled the cost of the annuity. Thereafter, the recipient paid tax on the entire annuity payment received. There was much criticism of this old rule because most non-employee annuitants could not recover the cost of their annuities tax-free unless they lived beyond their life expectancy.

Under the new annuity rule, the recipient is not taxed on that part of his annual annuity payments which is equal to the cost of his annuity divided by his total expected return over the life of the contract. He is taxed on any excess.

Once the taxable and non-taxable portion of his annual annuity are established, they remain constant throughout the term of his annuity and are reported in Part I of Schedule E on Page 2 of Form 1040.

In order to fill out Part I of Schedule E so as to arrive at the taxable portion of an annuity, it is necessary to determine several amounts. One of these, the investment in the contract of annuity, which goes on line 1, is the total cost to you of the contract or annuity less any payments received tax-free in previous years under the old three per cent rule.

Line 2 of Schedule E calls for an amount equal to the expected payments to be received. If the annuity contract is for a fixed number of years, that determines the number of annual payments

Schedule E—INCOME FROM PENSIONS OR ANNUITIES (See instructions)		Form 1040 Page 2
1. Investment in contract	9500.00	2. Amount received this year	600.00
3. Expected return	3600.00	4. Amount received less 3 per cent	397.06
5. Excess of 3 per cent over expected return	66.77%	6. Taxable portion (line 2 less line 4)	202.94

1. Rent from rental property	360.00	2. Depreciation (see instructions)	75.00
3. Other income (rental property)		4. Total (line 1 less line 2)	285.00

FILLED-IN SAMPLE of Schedules E, F, G and H is reproduced here to give you an idea of the figures required on return.

which, when multiplied by the amount of the annual payment, will give the expected return.

Most annuities, however, are for the life of one or more persons. The expected returns from such contracts can only be determined by using complicated life expectancy tables.

If you are receiving an annuity or pension, it is suggested that you contact the insurance company or other agency from which you receive payments. Most of these organizations are set up to furnish you the information needed to fill out Schedule E.

The fact that an annuity contract or pension was partially paid for by your employer does not affect the method by which it is taxed. However, you must separate your share of the cost from the amount contributed by your employer and show only your cost in line 1 of Schedule E. Your employer or the agency which pays you the annuity or pension should furnish this information.

If your contribution is not more than the amount of the pension or annuity payments which you will receive in the first three years after payments start, then you do not report the amounts received under the general rule discussed above.

Instead you report the amounts in Part II of Schedule E. This part is quite simple to fill out. It permits your pension or annuity payments to be recovered tax-free up to the amount of your cost or contribution. Thereafter, the payments are fully taxed.

Do not report the following pensions or benefits, as they are not taxable:

Government pensions to veterans or their families.
Social security benefits.
Railroad retirement pensions.
Armed forces retirement pay based on a disability resulting from active service.

Rental income is reported on Schedule F of Form 1040. Money you receive for renting any property must be reported. However, the schedule has columns for deducting expenses so that you are only taxed on the profit.

Read over the section on Rents and Royalties on Page 11 of the official instructions. This tells what to report as income and also covers the items you can deduct as expenses.

Depreciation is the most difficult expense to compute, especially for those who rent only a room or two in their home. The official explanation of depreciation is also on Page 11. Note that the new law liberalizes depreciation on new assets constructed or acquired after Dec. 31, 1953, provided the asset has an expected life of three or more years.

There are three items which should be carefully determined the first year you use Schedule H. One is the "cost or other basis," which goes in column 3; another is the method of depreciation to be used, which goes in column 5, and the last is the expected life of the property.

If you are renting out a house or anything larger, you would be wise to get expert help in setting up Schedule H for the first time. If, however, you are renting just a part of your house or relatively small items such as house furnishings, the following simple rules for filling out Schedule H will generally satisfy the Internal Revenue Service:

The "cost or other basis," was fully explained in Article 6 of this series.

Land is not depreciable so do not include the value of your lot in the "cost or other basis" of your house in computing depreciation. However, the cost of any major improvements or additions should be included in "cost or other basis" of your home.

If you are renting two out of six rooms in your house, take one-third of the "cost or other basis" and put that amount in column 3 of Schedule H, after filling out columns 1 and 2. If you rent one out of seven rooms, take one-seventh, and so on.

Next, estimate how many years your house or other rented property will last from the time you first began renting a part of it. The Internal Revenue Service has found the average brick house lasts about 40 years from the time it was built, and an average frame house about 30 years.

Home furnishings average about 10 years. You can use these estimates as a guide for determining how much longer your property will last. If you think your property will last longer than the above guides, use the longer period. Put the number of estimated years in column 6. Put in column 4 the total depreciation on the property you have deducted in previous years. The amount shown in column 3 of Schedule F cannot be more than column 3 minus column 4 of Schedule H.

If you are using the straight-line method of depreciation, enter in column 5 of Schedule H the words "Straight Line." This means you are dividing it up into equal yearly portions.

Now divide the amount you put in column 3 by the number of years in column 6. This will give you the depreciation to show in column 7. This same amount is then shown in column 3 of Schedule F.

Note that the instructions say to report room rent as business income in Schedule C if you render services to the occupant. This applies to people operating rooming or boarding houses as a business.

Any remaining items of income are reported on Schedule G. This is the place to report income from an estate or trust, alimony or separate maintenance received under a court order, rewards or prizes, recoveries of bad debts, and health or accident insurance payments received by you as reimbursements for medical expenses which reduced your tax in a prior year.

Tomorrow: Your personal deductions.

New 198-hp Mercury pulls 4 tons up Nob Hill

Tough San Francisco test proves that Mercury's new dual-exhaust Super-Torque V-8 delivers more usable power to the rear wheels — where it counts!

You may never have to haul a 41-foot, 8000-pound trailer. But the fact is that this car—a standard production model—easily pulled this load up one of the steepest hills in the country—a phenomenal demonstration of the tremendous reserve power in this new Mercury Montclair.

There's 198 horsepower in its new SUPER-TORQUE V-8 engine. And there's a new dual-exhaust system and a 4-barrel carburetor to put this power to work. You get far more than just greater top speed. You enjoy split-second getaway, instant response for passing, effortless hill climbing. Brilliant new acceleration at every speed from 1 mile per hour to whatever the law allows.

But the Mercury story of 1955 isn't based on power alone. There are new improvements in ball-joint front suspension for even easier handling. There are new improvements in Merc-O-Matic Drive for even quicker action, greater smoothness. There are new improvements in Mercury brakes—20% greater brake lining area for faster stops.

And Mercury is now offered in 3 series of cars. The low Montclair (only 58½ inches high) is being introduced this year for the first time. The beautiful Monterey and lowest-cost Custom Series bring a Mercury within the range of almost every budget—10 stunning models in all. And every model has an all-new body on an all-new chassis—longer, lower, bigger all over.

See these completely new Mercurys at our showrooms now. Take one out on the road for any kind of a test. You'll find out why it pays to own a Mercury.
